Atterney Benjamin K. Paine Predicts Complications.

Benjamin K. Paine, representing Geo F. Fanning, relative to the distribution of official ballots provided for women voters in elec-Mr. Paine said that as Justice Bart lett had held that the law permitting women to vote for School Commissioners is unconstitutional, his client thought it would be illegal for County Clerk Fanning to issue the special ballots for women provided for in that law. Justice Cullen said the law was plain in calling for the special ballots, and it was Fanning's pace to have them printed and distributed. He said it was the duty of the Inspecors of Election to look out that they should not be voted. It is understood that the application to Judge Cullen was made with the view of lessening the chances of success for Mrs. Raynor, of Sag Harbor, who is making a stout fight to be elected School Commissioner of that town. Mr. Paine said after the trial that many complications are likely to arise. If ballots are distributed for women, he thinks inspectors will let them vote, and women to vote for School Commissioner thinks inspectors will let them vote, and after they are once in the ballot-box they will be counted.

Justice Bartlett's decision was to the effect that the law giving women the right to vote is unconstitutional, and that therefore there names should be stricken from registry lists.
